

Here in the village there are many challenges.

People don't know that they have cataracts.

When they do, they don't know where to go.

Because of lack of services.

My name is Louis Phiri. I've been working with Nkhoma Eye Hospital as one of the Ophthalmic officers.

Nkhoma Eye Hospital is a partner with CBM for the past decades in history.

What are the challenges for people who are blind?

Being out of social life, not able to take care of themselves, living out of farming – they cannot do farming – hence, being worse in poverty because of their blindness.

How do you feel when you can help people?

Myself I feel like I'm on top of the world. I've been successful on my way, because that's our major mission,

To bring new hope to the blind and to bring new hope to the disabled group of individuals.
